

I find most people who use their cell phones in public places annoying. This would be very annoying in the confined quarters of an airborne aircraft.